MAY GO TO ITALY.

C. D. White at Norwich State Hosital Wants to Be Deported.

There is a strong probability that Charles D. White, who was sent to the state prison for abortion in Groton, may go from America and never come back. He is now confined in the Norwich State hospital, whence he was committed after he served his term in prison. White is an Italian, and with a deranged mind his thoughts are said to be on doing physical harm to those who were instrumental in having him committed for his crime. He once decided to go to his boyhood home, and a sum of money was provided for the purpose of sending him there, but after that Charlie changed his mind and never started. Now he is anxious to go to Italy and it is very probable he will depart soon after the new year.

Secretary, Miss Edith Lewis, and a mite box secretary.

The report of the delegates, Mrs. G. W. Harris and Miss Caroline Mow-ry, to the annual conference meeting at Westerly was much enjoyed. A letter from Corea, from a niece of Mrs. Harwood, was read telling of the death and burial of Mrs. Scranton, one of the oldest W. F. M. S. missionaries, who formerly lived in Norwich.

DIVORCE IS DENIED IN WRIGHT CA

Judge Reed Dismissed Petition Giving Judgment to Defendant-Will Case Occupied Court Another Day

In the superior court here on Thurs- as if she had taken too much or needed by Judge J. H. Reed handed down some morphine. He called his mother as if she had taken too much or needed some morphine. He called his mother to care for her.

Hattie S. Perkins recalled an occasion nine years ago when her aunt, Mrs. Grumley, met her on the street in New London, and didn't know her after she spoke until she explained who she was. She seemed tired, exhausted and sleepy.

Eva E. Fish testified to buying morphine for her aunt, Mrs. Grumley, and saw her four times when she considered her stupid and sleepy. She said her aunt was treated for the habit in 1886 and 1887 in Hartford. In 1908 she said she wrote to two of Mrs. Grumley's ricees in Pawtucket for her and sent them money orders. Mrs. Sherman found fault when she got back and Mrs. Grumley was excited. Mrs. Sherman said the money should have been sent another way.

Erastus Fish of Noank said his aunt. day Judge J. H. Reed handed down his decision in the contested divorce also decision in the contested divorce case of Harry C. Wright vs. Emma B. Wright, which was heard here last week and the first part of this week. Occupying two days. Mr. Wright sued for a divorce on the grounds of adultary, desertion and habitual intemperance, all of which were denied by Mrs. Wright, Judge Reed denied the divorce, having dismissed the petition and giving judgment to the defendant.

Attorney Desmond, who represented Mrs. Wright in the divorce case, stated that the case in the criminal court of common pleas brought by Mrs. Wright against Mr. Wright will be heard now. It is a case for non-support, and has been postponed several times because of the divorce case which was pending at the session of the court which recently adjourned After Mr. Wright was arrested he agreed to pay her $5 a week. She received that for some time, but for about two years she has not received it. Attorney Desmond intimated that Mrs. Wright might now brirg an action for a divorce, but no step of that kind has yet been taken.

Will Case Resumed.

Will Case Resumed.

Thursday morning the appeal from probate by the Fish brothers of the will of their slater, Mrs. Edward Grumley, was continued. Mrs. Fish, who was on the witness starid when court adjourned Wednesday afternoon, and who was later bruised by a fall down stairs, after court adjourned, was unable to appear Thursday morning, and the court was so informed and her testimony will be finished later.

Probate Judge A. P. Anderson of Groton testified to the inventory of the estate of Mrs. Grumley, which amounts to $11,115.71. It being mostly money in banks, $2,500 being in the Norwich Savings society, and since her death in January about $1,000 has been drawn from the banks, and the bankbooks were laid in.

George H. Packer of Mystic testified that he had bought morphine for his aunt, Mrs. Grumley, and stated that while he was laid up with a broken leg site came to his house and gave him $15, saying to tell no one of it except his wife, and she had run away when her people were out and must take the next car back. Later she asked him how much she had given him. She was cheerful and said she would give him more. He told of visits he made to the Grumley house, where he found Mrs. Grumley pacing the floor, with disheveled hair and glassy eyes, acting
